Our Family Business.

In 2001, Boddington's began making a high fruit-content Strawberry Conserve using excess fruit, from the family farm above Mevagissey in Cornwall. The farm was established in 1946 when William Boddington began growing fresh produce just after the end of the Second World War. 'Mystery Dick', as William was fondly referred to by the locals, was from a farming background in Oxfordshire and arrived as a Sea Cadet at the age of 16.

William married a local girl and developed his business. From these market garden origins, William's son Richard began to specialise in strawberries through the 70s and 80s, running a thriving pick your own enterprise and starting to supply the supermarkets. Further expansion followed in the 1990s, when Phil, William's grandson, returned to the business following horticulture training and extensive overseas experience. At that time the farm produced over 200 tons of fruit, and was the biggest fruit grower in Cornwall.

Under Phil's stewardship, the 2000s saw the business expand into everything strawberry; adding local products such as mead and cider, creating freeze-dried berries; and in collaboration with local companies, making strawberry syrup, a soft drink, wine, beer and liqueur. More recently, the preserves side has grown, with a range of high-quality conserves, relishes and chutneys.

The farm now only produces Class 1 fruit for local retail customers. To find out more visit www.boddingtonsberries.co.uk.

Phil and Louise's children have all played a role in the business over the years, helping in many areas, from harvest to marketing. In 2021, following training and experience in the engineering world, Will joined the business as Business Development Manager. Since then he has successfully rebranded the preserves side of the business, overseeing the fabulous new label designs and the launch of the exciting new website www.boddingtons.uk.

The product range is expanding, with the recent introduction of The Chilli Jam. There's always an eye on sustainability and further local collaborations are in the pipeline.
